The Basics

Lightworkers play a vital role in this life. They are carrying within them the capability to obtain spiritual awakening even faster than other people. They have also reached a certain phase of enlightenment before they begin with their mission on earth. They are in human form who chose to come through for them to mingle with other people, assisting them in dynamic spirituality with a greater ease.

The existence of lightworkers on this work is creating opening essential for light to come through from those higher planes. It is possible for you to have a brother, a sister or any family member who is a great lightworker. It is also possible that a lightworker is an individual who has yet to awaken to the path of your life.

A lot of lightworkers are helping people to grow in spirituality, whereas others have yet to bloom and start to fulfill their purpose in helping people increase light awareness in their lives.

Lightworkers also have a core goodness inside them, and they are carrying a great level of energy vibration that can help them to create loving and positive atmosphere in the world. They are always aware of their real presence, and they are living according to the divine plan. They are active in enlightenment.

Just the same as the sun that rises every morning, lightworkers are bringing light into this world. They are working upon the face of the earth lightly, light in bearing and in spirit, bringing light, peace, tranquility, happiness and love into the world. They play a vital role in bringing order in a chaotic world.

Nowadays, it is understood that lightworkers are those at the leading edge of revolutionizing human consciousness. They are also experiencing an expanded consciousness and a reconnection to infinite intelligence that is always accessible to all through our inner knowing.

Within the process of their development, Lightworkers are also influencing people and catalyzing their awakening because of their positive and light vibrational output.

Chapter 2:

Blocks To Being A Lightworker

Synopsis

Lightworkers are carrying with them the capability to obtain spiritual awakening better and even faster than others. They are also carrying inner seeds that are essential for a rapid awakening.

This not because they have higher souls or better souls than other people. This is actually because of the fact that they are older than many souls that presently incarnate in the world. Such older age can actually be understood in terms of experience instead of time.

Lightworkers have attained a certain phase of enlighten even before they come to life on this world and start their mission. It only depends on them on how they can unleash that “lightworker” within them.

However, there are many problems involved in awakening that kind of stage into them. Here are some of the common issues related to being a lightworker.

Issues to Becoming A Lightworker

Lightworkers can also be caught up in similar states of illusion and ignorance just the same as anyone else. Even though they begin from different points of departure, their ability to break through illusion and fear to be able to obtain enlightenment can always be locked or blocked by a lot of factors.

By enlightenment, what we mean is the state of being, which one realize that he or she is mainly of the Light – he or she has the ability to choose light at any time.

There are many lightworkers who are carrying the heavy karmaic burden, leading them astray for some time. This is one of the many factors that block the road to enlightenment for those lightworkers.

Such karmaic burden is actually related to those decisions that they once made regarding to humanity during its early stages. Such decisions were significantly disrespectful of life. All lightworkers who are now living in this world wish to undo and set right some of the mistakes that they once made in the past. They also want to restore and to cherish the things that were destroyed due to those mistakes.

When the lightworkers made their way through a kamic burden that means to release their need for power, they will begin to realize that they are beings of light. This will allow them to extend their hand and help other people in searching for their own real selves. However, they need first to go through such process on their own. This requires great perseverance and determination on their inner level.

Due to the fact that the society is feeding them with judgments and values, which commonly go against their natural impulses, a lot of lightworkers have gotten lost, and they end up in the states of self-denial, self-doubt and even hopelessness and doubt. This is actually because they can't suit into the order of things. They also conclude that there might be something wrong with them.

There are some lightworkers who also become stuck in the awakening stage. Toxic exposures, nutritional imbalances and overwork are creating lots of stress. It is discouraging many of them, and they require energy in order to overcome their past and their struggles and get on with their nature of service and healing.

What those lightworkers need to do is to cease searching for validation from those outside – friends, parents or society. This is the right time to remove those blocks in your goal of becoming a great lightworker.
